

New amusement machine service company
BANDAI NAMCO Technica to be incorporated
Spin-off company to expand and strengthen existing amusement machine after-sales services

On April 3rd 2017, BANDAI NAMCO Entertainment Inc. (Head office: Minato ward, Tokyo; President & CEO: Satoshi Oshita) will spin off its amusement machine after-sales servicing, establishing a new company, BANDAI NAMCO Technica Inc.

For many years, our Amusement Machine After Service Business has been developed upon the repair and spare parts sales for BANDAI NAMCO's own titles. Going forward, we aim to expand our operations into new areas by drawing on years of industry know-how and technology, incorporating a new company involved in purchasing, sales, and after-sales servicing of new and pre-owned machines, including models made by overseas manufacturers, and new services aimed at amusement facilities, including planning and sales. BANDAI NAMCO Technica will take over our existing amusement machine after service function.

With the unique strengths it possesses, BANDAI NAMCO Technica will contribute to growth and development across the whole spectrum of this fast-paced and ever-changing industry.
